	price to be competitive bid, no set price

A clean and tune shall consist of the following:

* Check for gas, oil, and/or water leaks; check for leaks in the heat exchanger; pre-testing and post-testing including carbon monoxide test, efficiency test, draft test, and a smoke test (for oil); check venting system; check ducts/pipes (supply and return); check power supply/wiring; check for safety factors (i.e., clearance from combustibles); ensure adequate fuel supply to the control valve; clean the fire tubes, burner ports, heat exchanger, squirrel cage, combustion chamber, cabinet, blower housing and motor; adjust burner and gas input (set the manifold pressure to manufacturer's recommendations); adjust the pilot light and/or adjust the combustion blower (for power blower); replace the filter(s) if necessary; lubricate fans, motors, and pumps; check and adjust and/or replace belts (if worn); check and adjust thermostat; check blower and high limit controls; check the pressure regulator; adjust burner air shutters; use a Bacharach, Testo, Dwyer, or equivalent for setting furnace efficiency; check the temperature rise (make sure the rise is within the range listed on the furnace rating tag); and adjust the heat anticipator with the use of an amp probe.

* A typical tune-up should result in a clean squirrel cage, return air plenum, combustion chamber, cabinet, heat exchanger, gas burners, oil filters, return air filter, etc. The above tune-up would result in a proper BTU input, replacement of defective wiring leading to the heating unit, oil pump pressure set at 100 psi or in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations, replacement of the orifice if the unit is over or under fired, repair or replace sections of the venting (chimney) system that are ineffective/unsafe, ensure proper draft, ensure/adjust combustion efficiency, properly operating limit controls/automatic fuel safety shut-off/boiler controls, properly matched thermostat heat anticipator, etc. After the tune-up, the furnace should be performing within 5 percent of the manufacturer's AFUE rating or a minimum 70 percent, steady state efficiency.

* Once the unit has been serviced, the service person must place a sticker on the heating unit, in plain view, certifying that the system has been properly serviced. The sticker shall indicate the date of service and the name and phone number of the service contractor.
